The Là Di Motte wine company began in the 1970s in Motta di Livenza, in the vine-covered lands on the border between the regions of the Veneto and Friuli. The 100-plus hectares of "Là Di Motte" vineyards have benefited from an extensive programme of environmental upgrading. This has involved the removal of old vineyards and the planting of new specialised clones in more modern vineyards.

Since 1882 Piccini has paid tribute to this great wine, bringing particular care and attention to its production. Renewal of vineyards, precise selection of Sangiovese clones and careful picking at harvest-time ensure an ethos of quality over quantity. This has made Chianti Piccini Arancio the "Chianti par excellence", and has led to great success at international level.
